Mike Lee elected leader of BYUSA

By REBECCA REEVES
Universe Staff Writer

Mike Lee was announced as the winner of the BYU Student Service Association's presidential elections last night in the Stepdown Lounge.

Receiving 1906 votes, or 38 percent, Lee beat out Dawnese Noel with 1525 votes and Trip Meredith who received 1422 votes.

Lee said that a lot of exciting things are going to happen and they're looking forward to a great year.

Lee has focused his campaign on the changes he wants to make in the way BYUSA officers are selected. Referring to the selection committee in a campaign debate he said "We've given up a lot of liberty to gain a little safety." Lee has advocated eliminating the selections committee.

This year had a lower voter turnout than in past years with only 4853 total votes, said Dave Lucero, an advisor to BYUSA.

Lucero said the low voter turnout could be because the candidates didn't do as much campaigning as in past years. Their booths downstairs weren't even staffed until Tuesday, he said.

This year also had one of the lowest numbers of disqualified votes ever, with only 60, Lucero said. The 1990 election which Brett Blake won had a high of 361, many of them being for Bart Simpson, he said.

As Lee prepares to step in as BYUSA president, plans for the other candidates remain uncertain.

Meredith said he will probably graduate early. He may come back and work with BYUSA as a program director, but not as an officer, he said.

Noel said there are several options she is looking at. She said she is considering putting in an application for a vice president position, or possibly going on a mission.

Noel said there was nothing about her campaign that she would do differently. "I stuck to what I firmly believe which is the mission statement of BYUSA and the university," she said.

Now that a BYUSA president has been chosen, applications for vice president are available and will be due Feb. 26.

SAC votes to replace selections committee with direct elections

By COLETTE LINTON
Universe Staff Writer

The Student Advisory Council unanimously voted Thursday for the elimination of the selections committee and to replace it with direct student body elections.

Most people realize the selection process intentions were good. They can also see the process is short of what it was intended to be," said Kylie Nielson, executive director of evaluation.

The proposal for direct elections will be reviewed by the Advisory Council, comprised of administrators and those presently involved with the election process, Nielson said.

The Advisory Council votes to replace the SAC's proposal, next year will be the first election since 1987 where students will be able to directly choose the candidates, she said.

BYUSA advisor, David Lucero, said direct elections are reinstated because the student association runs the risk of being perceived by students as a student government with legislative powers.

SAC member Eric Erickson, 23, a senior majoring in history from Allen, Texas, said, "My concern is if (the president) is appointed, students will lose interest in the association and BYUSA will not be viewed as a student organization."

"Every year the same problems arise at election time and then die because no one does anything about them," said Nielson.

Nielson said the overwhelming support for change this year was in response to the selections committee screening of candidates.

"This is the first year it has been common knowledge that someone was turned down," Nielson said. "Everyone is saying there needs to be a change."

According to a survey conducted last November, 63 percent of the students said they did not understand the role of the selections committee, 49.6 percent said they believe candidates selected by the committee did not reflect their views.

Clinton leaves the Hill, seeks support for plan

The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — President Clinton led his administration on a blitz across the map of America Thursday to enlist citizen support for a pain-then-gain economic plan that he said would keep America's children from having to settle for a "lesser life."

In a campaign-style rally at St. Louis' Union Station, the opening shot in his drive to win America to his side, Clinton said he was "tired of all the naysayers" who would oppose his budget plan.

"The price of doing the same thing is higher than the price of change," he declared.

Henry Cisneros, Clinton's housing secretary, carried the pitch to Flint, Mich., still reeling from the closing of a big General Motors plant in 1987. He said higher taxes can't be avoided.

"Taxes — even the word is difficult to express," Cisneros said. "I get dry in the mouth, but it's imperative."

But even as Treasury Secretary Lloyd Bentsen returned to Congress to implore legislators to cast "the vote of a lifetime" for Clinton's plan, a new release of fine print from the White House indicated the administration's deficit cutting to be less dramatic than first portrayed.

Republicans, meanwhile, accused Clinton of mounting a propaganda blitz to sell old tax-and-spend solutions disguised in new clothing. Clinton brushed off questions about new deficit projections as he set out for the Midwest to generate the grassroots support that will be vital if his plan is to survive attacks by powerful interests, criticism by Republicans and misgivings by some fellow Democrats.

In his maiden appearance before Congress Wednesday night, the president proposed raising taxes, directly or indirectly, for most Americans. His ideas would also cut spending in 150 programs but increase it elsewhere. And, to reinvigorate a soft economy, he would cut some business taxes and undertake a quick public works spending program.

But the new figures from the White House showed that when full account is taken of the impact of spending increases and pro-business tax cuts, the four-year reduction in deficits would not add up to the half-billion dollars ballyhooed by the administration. Instead, there would be a net reduction of $325 billion.

French club sponsors second meeting

Elder Charles Didier, a member of the presidency of the First Quorum of the Seventy, and his wife Lucie, will give a fireside for those who speak French on the topic of "Christ" today at 5:30 p.m. in the JSB auditorium.

This is the second year the general authority will give a fireside of this nature. Elder Didier is the only French-speaking General Authority, said Noriane Batailler, a graduate student in communications from Paris, France.

The fireside is sponsored by the French Club in order to provide cultural activities for students enrolled in French classes.

"We are hoping to make the fireside a tradition," said Isabelle Tarazona, a senior majoring in French from Marseille, France.

The French choir will perform two selections at the fireside. A turnout of at least 700 people is expected, Batailler said.

LDS Church schedules public tours to showcase new temple in San Diego

By JAMES DAVIDSON
Universe Staff Writer

Beginning this weekend, residents of Southern California will be able to tour The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints' newest temple in the city of San Diego, a 100,000-square-foot temple.

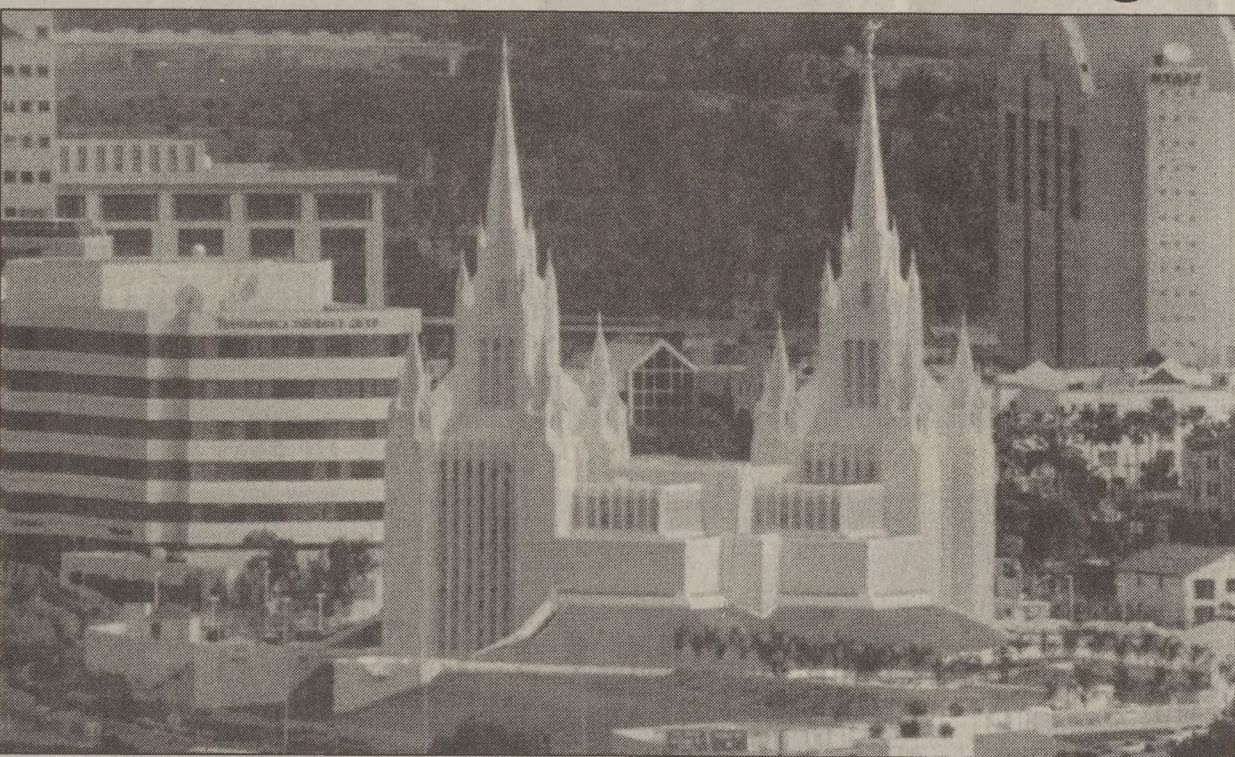

The LDS San Diego Temple will open its doors to the public for six weeks to give local residents an opportunity to view the site, located adjacent to one of California's busiest freeways. The open house will begin on Saturday and run through April 3.

The temple will be formally dedicated in a series of services beginning April 25.

The building is the Church's 45th temple and the third in California. Other temples are located in Los Angeles and Oakland. The San Diego temple has been under construction for approximately three years.

According to Don LeFevre, LDS Church spokesman, more than 100,000 Church members reside in Southern California. The temple, located in Orange County, will serve the San Diego County and Orange County areas in Southern California and the northern Mexico. LeFevre expects thousands to attend the public open house.

James Stubblefield, LDS stake mission president for the Penasquitos Stake in San Diego, said hundreds of local LDS Church members have gathered to act as volunteers for the event. "Members of the stakes in San Diego County are serving on different committees and in various other capacities to help make the event a success," he said.

Y claims 20th win in FSU trouncing

By JEFF CALL
Assistant Sports Editor

BYU reached the magical 20-win plateau Thursday night, but there was nothing magical about their 90-74 thumping of Fresno State.

For the fifth straight game, center Gary Trost led the Cougars in scoring, with 19 against the Bulldogs, along with seven assists, seven rebounds and nine for nine shooting from the free throw line.

Only three days earlier, Trost was involved in a car accident which left his face cut and bruised. "At first I felt a little (tentative), but the rest of the game I felt good," he said.

Fresno St. coach Gary Colson was impressed. "There's no question about Trost playing, and playing good," he said. "I knew that eight years ago when I was in his home trying to recruit him. He's a stud."

Despite his facial injury, Trost played confidently in the post. At one point, he made Fresno's 6-10, 295 pound Johnny (Duncan) Hines look like a sequoia in the paint, maneuvering around him for a layup and drawing the foul.

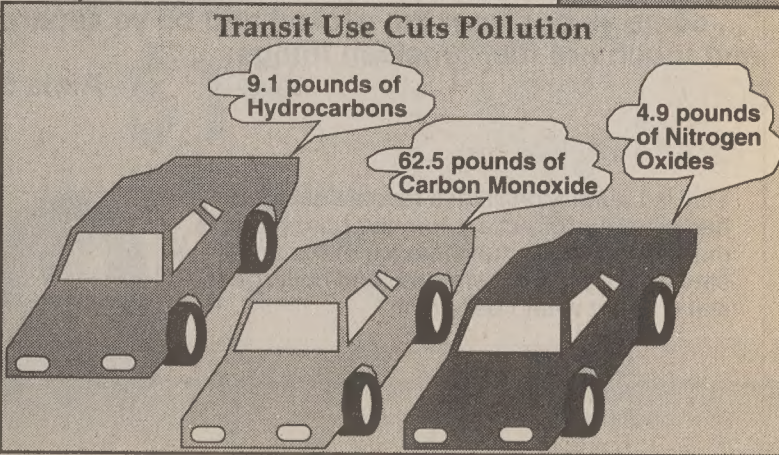

The Cougars (13-1 in the WAC, 20-5 overall) outbounded the Bulldogs 52-34. "The difference (in the last few games) is been what we've been doing on the boards," coach Roger Reid said.

Guard Kurt Christensen went five for five from the floor, scoring 10 points. "Some nights the basket looks as big as the Great Salt Lake," he explained. Forward Mark Durrant added seven points and eight rebounds.

Saturday at 7:30 p.m., BYU will host Air Force, who lost at Utah Thursday night.

Haitian ferry sinks, hundreds drown

PETIT GOAVE, Haiti — A packed ferry carrying up to 1,500 people sank in stormy seas off the coast of Haiti, and only 141 people were known to have survived, military sources and fishermen said Thursday. Survivors told how they clung to floating objects, in one case a bag of charcoal, to stay alive.

Madeleine Julien, a 29-year-old street merchant, was among the lucky ones. "The sea was full of people," she said from her hospital bed in this coastal town. "I kept bumping into drowned people."

The ferry Neptune was en route to Port-au-Prince from Jeremie, a port city 180 miles to the west, when it went down late Tuesday off Petit Goave, 60 miles west of the capital. But communications are so crude outside the capital it took a group of about 60 survivors a day to first report the accident.

Cmdr. Larry Mizell, a Coast Guard spokesman, said there was "no correlation between this and the boat people," referring to the tens of thousands of Haitians who have been fleeing their homeland.

Julien and other survivors said there were no life jackets and life boats on board. People had little chance of surviving unless they were lucky enough, as Julien was, to grab an object to stay afloat.

Drivers' help requested for BYU tests

BYU chemical engineering students, in cooperation with Provo City, are requesting that BYU students, faculty and staff avoid driving on University Avenue in downtown Provo during the week of Feb. 22-26.

The engineering students are asking for the public's voluntary support as they conduct tests to determine the effects of carbon monoxide (CO) vehicle emissions on the city's air quality. Results of the tests will be given to the state of Utah, in its effort to reduce CO emissions.

Students, faculty and staff are encouraged to use 900 East, 500 West and Freedom Boulevard, instead of University Avenue, to help facilitate the experiment.

The city of Provo is encouraging the project to avoid paying future penalties, imposed by the Environmental Protection Agency, for violating air quality standards.

Economy improves, prices increase

WASHINGTON — The worst increase in consumer prices in two years accompanied signs of a resurgent economy, including fewer layoffs and the highest level of industrial production since early in the recession, the government said Thursday.

The Labor Department's Consumer Price Index shot up 0.5 percent in January, the biggest increase since January 1991. But most economists dismissed this price report as mostly an aberration.

The bond market, which often retreats in the face of higher inflation, rallied Thursday. Traders encouraged by President Clinton's plan to cut the budget deficit pushed prices higher despite the inflation report.

Output by the nation's factories, mines and utilities rose 0.4 percent in January, the Federal Reserve said. It was the fourth consecutive increase and pushed production past its previous peak.

The Labor Department said weekly claims for jobless benefits dropped for the third consecutive time.

Senate votes to bar foreigners with AIDS

WASHINGTON — The Senate voted Thursday to bar AIDS-infected foreigners from immigrating permanently to the United States, a defeat for President Clinton that left the White House groping for what to do next.

During the campaign, Clinton had promised to lift a ban already in place, but after the vote the White House seemed to run up the white flag. "If you look at the vote margin, he doesn't have that many options," said spokeswoman Dee Dee Myers. "He's going to review it; I think the Senate made a pretty strong statement about it."

Sen. Don Nickles, R-Okla., thought so, too, and said the 76-23 vote on his amendment should show the administration that letting people with the AIDS virus into the country is politically unpopular. Nickles' amendment would make the immigration ban a federal law. Nickles said the nation's resources should not be sapped to pay for foreigners with an expensive and fatal illness that could cost $100,000 per infected person.

Sen. Edward Kennedy, D-Mass., said the United States had obligations that extend beyond its borders to political refugees.

Jesse Jackson has begun a hunger strike in sympathy with more than 200 HIV-infected Haitian refugees.

Abortion bill awaits Leavitt's signature

By GLENN CHRISTENSEN
Universe Staff Writer

Women seeking abortions in Utah will have additional restrictions placed upon them if the governor signs a measure passed by the legislature this week.

Tim Sheeham, assistant director of public affairs for the governor, said Gov. Mike Leavitt would sign the bill into law.

After minor technical wording changes in the bill, the House passed it 68-7 Wednesday sending it back to the Senate for approval of the wording changes. After final clearance from the Senate, the bill will go to the governor for his signature.

The bill calls for a 24-hour waiting period before a woman seeking an abortion can receive one. Also the woman must be counseled concerning the fetal development of her child and be given details about the procedure she is about to go through.

Opponents of the Utah measure said physician counseling would put an undue burden on women in rural Utah that may not have access to a physician.

A compromise was struck between the two groups that allows a rural registered nurse, nurse-midwife or physician's assistant to provide the counseling.

This bill will "drastically change things for women seeking abortions. They will no longer be able to go down to the local abortion mill easier than they go to the dentist," said Gayle Ruzika, president of the Utah Eagle Forum. "Now they can't have an abortion until they have sat down with a counselor."

"The 24-hour wait has saved more babies, in states where it has been implemented, than anything else," said Ruzika. "If they can get the woman to wait 24-hours, she will often change her mind, and that will save a lot of babies."

8.8 spikers face struggling UC Irvine

SHAUNA SCOTT
Universe Sports Writer

BYU's eighth-ranked men's volleyball team is looking for two wins against UC Irvine today at 7:30 p.m. and Saturday p.m. in the Smith Fieldhouse.

Irvine is currently 1-6 overall and has not won a game in their season. The Cougars are not too concerned with Irvine's record and are still planning on a good game against the Anteaters.

The team is excited to play them this weekend because it's always fun to play at home and it's always fun to play Irvine," junior Ethan Watts said.

"We are a club we can't look at everyone is tough in our eyes," junior setter Jason Watson said.

Coach Carl McGown said that the team's preparation has consisted of going back to the basics in practice so that the team will be well prepared for their matches.

"We worked mostly on serving and receive this week," coach McGown said.

The Cougars are preparing for a tough match this coming week. After beating Irvine the team will travel to California to compete against Loyola Marymount and Loyola Marymount on Wednesday and Thursday. They are returning back to Provo to play Stanford on Saturday.

Freshman helps lead Cougs to 9-0 WAC mark

By TAUNYA TERRY
Universe Sports Writer

Freshman Behka Stafford joined the Cougar women's basketball team with hopes that she would be able to contribute to the team her first year and has proven herself by assisting in the Cougars' successful season and undefeated 9-0 WAC record.

"She's our freshman super seven," Coach Jeanie Wilson said. Wilson said that with freshmen, all you hope for is that they won't hurt the team and that Stafford is a player that contributes positively.

"It's easy being a freshman because there's no pressure and people don't expect a lot," Stafford said.

Stafford has demonstrated that she can perform in high pressure situations when in Saturday's game against UTEP, with only eleven seconds left in regulation, she shot the Cougars into overtime by nailing a basket from the top of the key.

For Stafford, the 6:30 a.m. shooting practice has paid off. Wilson said Stafford's extra year-round shooting hours has made her a great shooter.

Stafford currently holds the school records for best three-point percentage (85.7) and most three-point shots in a game (6).

"I'm a freshman and can't do a whole lot yet," Stafford said. "I love the game and have to practice to be good enough to play."

Coming to play for BYU was a dream come true for Stafford. After turning down over 75 other offers to such schools as Weber State, UC Santa Clara, and St. Mary's, Stafford said she decided to come to BYU not knowing what to expect.

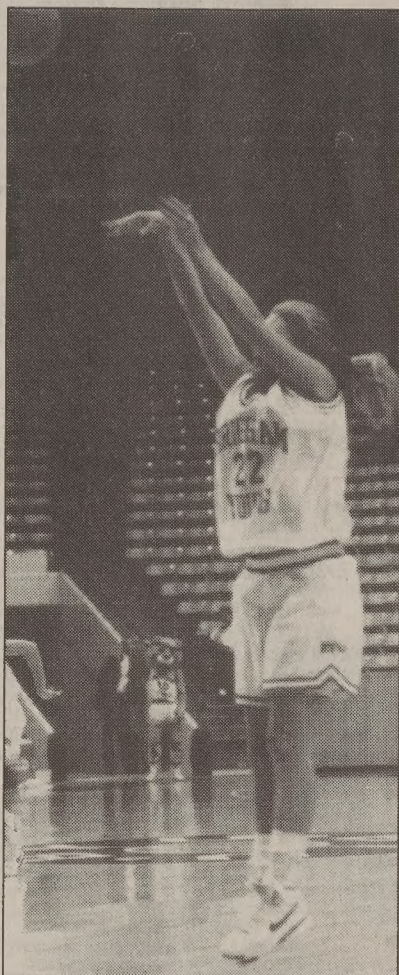

"We are very fortunate to have Behka," Coach Wilson said. "I wouldn't trade her for any recruit in the country."

Wilson said that her personality and well-rounded abilities make her an important part of the team.

Stafford said that the team has a lot of confidence going into the weekend games against Wyoming and CSU.

"We still have to go out and prove who we are," Stafford said. "I don't think any games are easy anymore, but we are ready to play."

Stafford has been ready to play ever since she started practicing with her older brother's basketball team that was coached by her dad.

Behka Stafford, the WAC's No. 2 three-point shooter with a 41.5 shooting percentage, attempts a three against UTEP.

"My dad was really encouraging and taught me all I know," Stafford said.

An elementary education major, Stafford likes to combine her love for children and basketball by teaching at her high school's summer basketball camps in Auburn, Wash. "Coaching the kids really teaches me patience," Stafford said.

After graduating, Stafford said she would be interested in coaching but that her ultimate dream would be to play on the Olympic team.

BYU's last home games will be against Wyoming on Friday at 7:30 p.m. in the Marriott Center and Colorado State at 5 p.m. on Saturday.

"Both teams are capable of getting to us and are looking for revenge but we are ready for them," Wilson said.

Y to tangle with No. 9 Fresno St.

By GREG BARRY
Universe Sports Writer

After going undefeated at the National Private Universities Championship in Des Moines, Iowa, the BYU wrestling team (8-5) will hit the mat against ninth-ranked Fresno State Saturday at 7 p.m. in the Smith Fieldhouse.

During the NPUC, the Cougars defeated Valparaiso, Marquette and Drake Universities with a combined score of 121-18. BYU has won their last four matches, and junior Scott Eastmond said that the team is peaking at the right time.

"We have some wrestlers back who were hurt earlier in the season," Eastmond said, "and we really don't have any weakness in our lineup."

Eastmond (11-4) was named the outstanding wrestler in the NPUC and will lead the Cougars along with senior Phil Armstrong (16-2) against Fresno St.

The Bulldogs are 14-5, and come to Provo with five wrestlers ranked in the top 10 in the nation.

BYU heavyweight Jim Ellis (8-5) will face Lorenzo Neal who is not only one of their top wrestlers, but plays fullback for the Fresno St. football team and scored a touchdown against the Cougars this past season.

A quick look at the world of sports

• The BYU men's golf team is 11th out of 20 teams at the Burns Golf Invitational in Kaneohe, Hawaii. BYU's top golfer, Eric Rustand, is 27th with a two round score of 145.

• Detroit Pistons center Olden Polynice will eat only on game days as he joins Rev. Jesse Jackson in a hunger strike protesting the immigration policy towards Haitians.

• Michael Jordan politely turned down Gov. Mike Leavitt's invitation to play golf in St. George during the All-Star break. Jordan also apologized for any embarrassment his comments about not being able to play golf in Utah may have brought to the state.

• Former Georgia running back Garrison Hearst was found to have a torn anterior cruciate ligament in his knee following workouts at an NFL combine. He will spend the next few weeks studying his medical options, but will continue to run track and workout for NFL teams.

Clinton package proposes undoing Reaganomics

The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — As more details of President Clinton's policies surface, it's becoming clear just how fundamental a change he is proposing in the way government does business. The unraveling of the Reagan legacy is written across scores of Clinton program changes, large and small. "I'm drawing howls from conservatives — including Reagan himself. 'Did I hear that right?'" Reagan wrote in an opinion piece in Thursday's New York Times. "I'm afraid so," the former president said, answering his own question as he took the long issue with Clinton's assertion that he wants to tax most those who did well in the 1980s. "Do they really believe that those who have worked hard and been successful should somehow be punished for it?" asked Reagan.

From huge cuts in defense spending and the scaling back of expensive but popular projects like the space station, to increases in programs for women, infants and children, to widespread tax increases hitting the wealthiest the hardest — the remodeling is everywhere.

"There is a dramatic difference in philosophy that is reflected in Clinton's program and his approach to governance. The contrast is stark," said Thomas Mann, director of governmental studies at Brookings Institution.

And, while Clinton's package still embraces one of the most ambitious deficit-reduction efforts ever, the new figures served to underscore that Clinton's plan relies proportionately more on tax increases than net spending cuts to stem the flow of federal red ink.

"In a nutshell, there are too many tax increases relative to spending cuts," said Paul Huard, a National Association of Manufacturers vice president.

Clinton's package calls for higher income taxes on wealthy individuals and corporations and proposed a new energy tax on all fuels, a measure that would hit the middle class the hardest. Ironically, beyond some of the high-profile spending cuts, many of Clinton's proposed reductions mimic ones found in both the Reagan and Bush budgets.

For instance: fees on boats using inland waterways, grazing fees for ranchers on federal lands, recreational fees for using national parks, cutbacks in programs like the Tennessee Valley Authority. But these are the kinds of items any administration is likely to propose in finding ways to battle the deficit. The main thrust of Clinton's program remains an undoing of Reaganomics.

POLICE BEAT

SHANNON DORMINEY
Universe Staff Writer

Theft

Between Feb. 2 and Feb. 14, a video cassette recorder, model JVC super S valued at $800, was stolen from a football office in the Smith Field house.

In the afternoon on Feb. 9, a student's laptop computer and canvas bag were stolen in the American Heritage Walk-In in the Smith Family Living Center. The computer, canvas bag and computer disk are valued at $535. On Feb. 9 at 6 p.m., $140 was stolen from a student's locker in the men's room of the Richards Building. The student said the money was snatched from him when he arrived, and thought he had locked his locker.

Property Damage
On Saturday, a vehicle with Idaho plates drove into a closed gate at the Ellsworth Meat and Livestock Center. Property damage is valued at $800.

Assistance Required

On Feb. 11 at 5:45 p.m., P.E. Services requested police assistance when a student refused to leave a tennis court after being asked to wear BYU issue clothing. Police found the student had an outstanding warrant from St. George Police Department.

Sex Offense

At 8 p.m. on Feb. 11, University Police questioned a married male student claiming to interview female students for an anatomy project. Of the three females confronted by the perpetrator, only one female complied with his wishes. Though the female student was not sexually violated, police found that the perpetrator had been arrested for the similar actions in 1991.

'Greeks' at TCU face negative stereotypes but serve community

By JENNIFER DUKE
Universe Staff Writer

Going greek has become a social status at Texas Christian University in Fort Worth, Texas, as 40 percent of the student body belongs to a sorority or fraternity, said Scott McLinden, vice president of Phi Kappa Sigma and vice president of the student government.

There are 10 sororities and 10 fraternities at TCU, said Jennifer Tucker, a member of the Pi Beta Phi sorority. "It's (belonging to a sorority) a great way to get involved on campus," she said.

To get involved in a sorority or fraternity, a student usually has to endure "rush" for an entire semester before they know if they are in or out. The "rush" period is when the student has to prove himself or herself to the members of the sorority or fraternity. One sorority is trying to change that.

Laura Beitler, a sophomore in management, is a member of Alpha Delta Pi. The sorority is changing its system of rushing.

Instead of the normal semester-long period, at Alpha Delta Pi candidates for membership only have to endure six weeks. "The (candidates) are treated with more respect now than before," Beitler said.

This will hopefully help the reputation of being greek get better, she said. There is a bad stereotype given to being greek.

"Fraternities usually give greeks bad names," Beitler said. "It's not too much with the sororities as it is with the fraternities."

There is definitely a problem with the fraternity competition here," Tucker said. "One of the chapter houses was vandalized and it's suspected another fraternity did it."

"There is a definitive animosity between the fraternities here," McLinden said.

Sometimes the greeks can't tell if the university supports them or not. "They make more rules every year, but they support the service projects," Tucker said.

The students have to ride buses to the parties to curb drunken driving. Everyone has to be accounted for, and dates that are not greek have to register their names and social security numbers, said Tucker.

Grade point averages have to be kept above a 2.0, but there is academic competition between the chapters, Tucker said.

Students are rewarded when they receive higher than a 3.4 at the Phi Kappa Sigma house. "Members are commended and can receive money taken off dues," McLinden said.

The greeks at TCU don't spend all their time partying, Tucker said. "My sorority will be involved in the Muscular Dystrophy walk in March, and we just had a 'Zoo do,'" Tucker said.

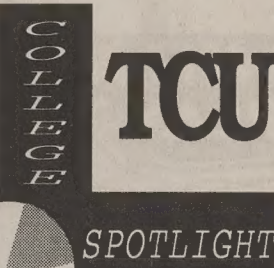

"Zoo do" is a day when the zoo is open all day for the Fort Worth area. Children come in and the sorority members paint the children's faces and work with them all day.

Beitler's sorority is involved with raising money and volunteering for the Ronald McDonald House in Fort Worth.

The house is located near the hospital and it is a place where low income parents stay while their child is in the hospital.

McLinden's fraternity members volunteer as big brothers for an elementary school. "We take them to get pizza and ice cream and play football with them."

The fraternity also works in low income areas to build parks and houses.

Service group lands safely after hijack from Haiti

The Associated Press

MIAMI — A gunman seized a hostage at a Haitian airport, hijacked a missionary group's plane with 12 others aboard and ordered it to Miami on Thursday, an official said.

But the gunman surrendered his weapon to the crew about 2 1/2 hours after he commandeered the plane, before it reached Miami, said a federal law enforcement source who spoke on condition of anonymity. The source also said the hijacker was a soldier.

The hijacker shot a hole in the ceiling of the plane before it took off, but no injuries were reported, said Kathleen Bergen, a spokeswoman for the Federal Aviation Administration in Atlanta.

The plane was carrying 10 passengers, all believed to be U.S. citizens, and a crew of two when the hijacker boarded with a woman he took hostage on the ground in Cap Haitien in northern Haiti, Bergen said.

"I have no idea of any of his demands other than he wants to go to Miami," she said.

The FBI was planning to be there when the plane arrived, said Wendi Jackman, airport spokeswoman. The U.S. Customs Service sent up a Citation jet to accompany the plane into the airport, according to the Coast Guard office in Miami.

It wasn't immediately known whether the hijacking was related to Haitian refugee crisis. Tens of thousands of Haitians have fled the impoverished Caribbean nation by sea since the army ousted the country's first democratically elected president, Jean-Bertrand Aristide, in 1991.

American policy has been to intercept the refugees at sea, though some have reached Florida.

The hijacked plane was owned by Missionary Flight International, based in West Palm Beach, Fla. The group regularly takes food and medical supplies to Haiti from Palm Beach.
